

WAGE CAMPAIGN AGAINST MOROS

Murder of Captain McNally and Six Scouts Will Be Avenge.

Washington, January 27.—An aggressive campaign against the Moros, in Jolo, Philippine Islands, which may recall the rapid marches, the spirited engagements, and the fierce hand-to-hand fighting of American soldiers there eight years ago, will follow the disaster which befell Philippine scouts and members of the constabulary January 21.

Brigadier-General John J. Pershing, commanding the department of Mindanao, will be in charge of the operations, but the punitive expeditions against Moros probably will have official recognition at headquarters after, rather than before, the disaster.

Conflict Is Confirmed.
Confirmation of the death at the hands of Moros of Captain Patrick McNally and six enlisted scouts, and the severe wounding of Lieutenant William Townsend and Lieutenant Whitney, of the constabulary, with eight enlisted men, was received at the War Department today.

Several times the constabulary, doing police duty in Jolo, has been surprised, and one or more men have fallen victims to the bolo. The disaster of January 21 is the most portentous that has been reported recently and has done more to excite the old feeling against the Moros.

Savage and fanatical, they are irrepressible, and despite the success of the constabulary in maintaining quietest of the time, an attack is expected whenever the men are in an exposed position. The only curative measure effective for any length of time appears to be a genuine punitive expedition, in which the Moros are driven into the swamps.

Attacked by Moros.
Last week Captain Rhee and a force were attacked by Moros while crossing the Abulug River. An expedition was sent after the attacking band, and it is thought Captain McNally may have been with this force when he met his death. Details of the engagements have not yet been received by the War Department.

That specific orders will be issued from the department to chase the Moros and to kill off the chief offenders is doubtful. But in the course of running down those who have offended against the rule of the constabulary, it will be an easy matter to wage quite as aggressively a campaign as if such specific orders were issued.

There have been a number of campaigns in the Philippines of which the story had never been written. Local ports of refuge, therefore, it is probable that some justifiable to men in constant danger of a night attack or the bolo of a Moro who has crept into a tent night around resentment in the United States. Therefore, it is probable that General Pershing will know of some of the expeditions after they are well on their way, the leaders going with the quiet purpose of avenging their comrades.

Mostly Are Spaniards.
The enlisted men are said to be Spaniards largely, natives who have enlisted in the constabulary.

Expeditions against the Moros are necessarily directed against the men themselves. Their houses are so fragile, so easily erected, that they do not represent a considerable property value. Their furnishings are ordinarily of little value.

The destruction of property and crops would not and has never affected the Moros noticeably. The only tempering agent has been the bullet.

CONDITION IS CRITICAL.
Constable Wright Thought To Be Victim of Fatal Accident.

Warsaw, Va., January 27.—This morning about 10 o'clock C. W. Wright, constable of Cople District, Westmoreland County, was caught in an uncanny way in the icy grip of a gasoline engine at the shop of Nade Hudson, at Acorn, and it is thought, was fatally injured. His backbone is thought to be broken and his condition is critical.

A Valuable Remedy for Throat and Lungs.

The makers of Eckman's Alternative, which is doing so much good for consumptives, are continually in receipt of wonderful reports of recovery brought about solely through the use of this medicine. These reports are always at the command of the interested and many of the writers in their gratitude have suggested that like sufferers write and learn what it did for them.

Here is one specimen:
"Gentlemen: Pardon me for not writing sooner, but I am now feeling better than I have for some time. SHE WILL NOT RETURN TO PASTOR-HUSBAND

Mrs. Fisher Feels That She Is Not Fitted to Be Wife of Minister.

New York, January 27.—Mrs. Orville Earl Fisher, wife of the pastor of the New Utrecht Reformed Church, Eighteenth Avenue, near Eighty-fourth Street, Bath Beach, has left her husband and written to him that as she does not deem herself fitted to perform the duties demanded of a clergyman's wife, she will not return to him.

There are rumors among members of the church who know of the differences that have arisen between Dr. Fisher and his wife that she will cultivate her voice, a fine soprano, in England, and ultimately try to go on the operatic stage.

The New Utrecht Church is the oldest church of any denomination on Long Island. The present building was built in 1828 and the church itself dates beyond that time. It is a picturesque old stone building, set back from the street in a bower of trees.

Dr. Fisher went to the church from his first charge in Newark about five years ago, when he was called to assist the Rev. A. H. Brush. In Newark he had met a Miss Stanley, then about twenty-two years old, and when he received his call to Bath Beach he asked her to look over the old church and parsonage with him and decide if she would care to live there and take up the duties of a clergyman's wife, which he explained, were sometimes hard and would make great demands on her time.

Apparently Miss Stanley was willing to try, for a short time after Dr. Fisher accepted the call he was married and went to live in the old parsonage. Dr. Brush resigned a few months later and the assistant rector has endeavored himself to the members of the church that he was chosen to succeed the senior clergyman. Dr. Fisher became more and more popular, but Mrs. Fisher, it is said, did not seem to care for the work of the church and her popularity did not equal that of her husband.

Last spring Mrs. Fisher arranged for a trip to England, as it was thought the change and some visits to her friends there would improve her health. She sailed on June 1, and Dr. Fisher bought a ticket for a return trip on September 27. She did not come on that date, however, and about October 1 Dr. Fisher received a letter from his wife in which she said that she did not believe she was suitable for the life of a clergyman's wife. She added that she would not return, and it is understood, asked Dr. Fisher what he would do. He said that the church governing body held on the first Monday in November Dr. Fisher read this letter from his wife and at the end tendered his resignation. He said that the church was dictating solely because of his fear that the differences between himself and Mrs. Fisher might become public and bring the breath of scandal to the church door.

One member of the governing board, H. A. Holt, of 184 Eighty-third Street, told of this incident last night. He refused to divulge the exact contents of the letter or to say what Mrs. Fisher said of her plans.

Speaking both for Dr. Fisher and the church, Mr. Holt said that the doors of the parsonage would remain open to Mrs. Fisher. This was taken to indicate that Dr. Fisher would take no action leading to a legal separation.

Since that incident, Dr. Fisher has not been well. He has appeared worn and pale, and last week became ill with grip.

On Wednesday he was moved to the Bay Ridge Sanatorium, 47 Orington Avenue, Brooklyn, and a few days ago went to the Oak Court Hotel, Lakewood, N. J., to recuperate. He will return to Bath Beach on Wednesday to officiate at an important wedding there.

Although Dr. Fisher has appeared much shaken by his wife's letter, so much so as to call out the sympathy of his congregation, he has never since the meeting referred to his wife in any way.

Dr. Fisher is 37 years old and was graduated from the Theological Seminary of Rutgers College, New Brunswick, N. J.

Admits Its Truth.
Lakewood, N. J., January 27.—The Rev. Orville Earl Fisher, who has been stopping at the Oak Court Hotel here recovering from an attack of the grip, admitted today that his wife had gone to England and would not return.

"Yes, that is perfectly true," he said. "Our separation is no different from that of a great many other married couples. It was simply a case of incompatibility of temperament."

Mr. Fisher showed much feeling in making his statement and expressed regret that the matter had attracted so much attention, as the entire difficulty had arisen from their inability to live happily together.

BOMB IN LABORATORY PRELIMINARY TO FLAMES

St. Paul's School at Lawrenceville Suffers Loss of $2,000.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Lawrenceville, Va., January 27.—St. Paul's Normal and Industrial School was visited by a fire Monday afternoon that for a time threatened to destroy the whole institution. About 2 o'clock one of the boys' dormitories was found to be on fire. The alarm was sounded and in a short while the entire town and St. Paul's student fire departments had been alerted. About 2 o'clock one of the boys' dormitories was found to be on fire. The alarm was sounded and in a short while the entire town and St. Paul's student fire departments had been alerted.

Fighting in a driving rain without boots or rubber coats, the Lawrenceville volunteer fire department had a veritable baptism of fire and water with its first fire. Efforts were confined to saving two frame houses adjoining the burning building. Six streams of water so flooded the burning building that in about an hour the fire was under control. It is supposed that it was caused by an overheated stove igniting a wooden mantle. The damage to the building and the two adjoining ones will amount to about $2,000, which is covered by insurance. A heavy loss was sustained by the students, many of whom lost all of their clothing and books. Forty boys are without quarters.

St. Paul's School is a colored institution under the jurisdiction of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia. This is the first fire that has visited Lawrenceville since the installation of the new water department. The tank furnished an abundance of water at a high pressure.

CRISIS MAY BE REACHED TO-DAY

Republican Caucus Called to Plan Course as to Appointments.

Washington, January 27.—The Republican fight for confirmation of President Taft's 1300 appointments now pending in the Senate is expected to reach a crisis to-morrow, when a Republican caucus will be asked by Republican leaders to bind its members to a continuous session behind closed doors in an effort to break Democratic opposition.

The caucus has been called ostensibly to take up the proposal made by the Democrats for a joint committee to weed out the Taft appointments. It is understood that prominent Republicans will submit to the caucus a proposed plan by which the members of the caucus themselves will attempt to hold the Senate continually in session until the Democrats could be forced to give way and permit a general consideration of all appointments.

It is believed to-night that many of the Republicans would not agree to the suggested plan. Since the Democratic fight began, a number of executive sessions have been held, but the Democrats have kept up a general filibuster and have prevented action, except on three or four nominations. The attitude of individual Republicans indicates that the caucus to-morrow will decline to treat with the Democrats through a joint committee. In case the plan for a continuous filibuster also fails, the situation over the appointments will be practically unchanged. Democratic leaders apparently have determined to hold in abeyance all action on appointments until toward the close of February, when they believe the Republicans will be forced to agree to the confirmation of the army, navy, consular, marine corps and Public Health Service appointments, leaving the balance to fall by expiration of the session March 4.

HARVARD BARS SIGNS.

Students Can't Use Them in Future for Room Decorations.
Boston, January 27.—The faculty of Harvard University has decided that hereafter sign posts, street signs and similar unsightly objects shall not be used by students as room decorations. In barring signs the faculty breaks up a custom of long standing.

Hereafter the decorations of students' rooms must be confined to the use of conventional pictures, photographs, banners, etc. It has been the delight of students in the past to collect street signs during their evening outings, and post them conspicuously around the walls in their rooms. The practice caused much annoyance, especially when street signs were taken, and merchants were frequently required to replace their business signs several times during the school year.

Shoots at Close Range, but Wound Not Expected to Prove Fatal.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Danville, Va., January 27.—At 7 o'clock this morning, Esther Sykes, a weaver, was shot at twice by her husband, John N. Sykes, who, in a fit of rage, attacked her in a weaver room of the Dan River Cotton Mills. Only one of the bullets struck the woman, and beyond causing a slight flesh wound, did not do any harm. The couple have been married only a few months, and it is said that the woman declined to live with him and recently left him. This morning the husband on their way to work, and he followed her into the weaver room, and as she busied herself with her loom he drew his pistol, and holding her with his free hand, pressed the barrel against her breast and fired. The bullet struck a rib and glanced across the body and out of the right breast. Although suffering intensely, Mrs. Sykes grasped her husband and succeeded in grasping the pistol barrel and managed to "break" it, scattering the cartridges over the floor.

Before any more damage could be done the mill overseer, J. R. Buxton, succeeded in knocking Sykes to the ground and holding him there until an officer arrived and placed him in custody. The woman was immediately taken to a physician who, after examining and dressing the wound, deemed it not necessarily fatal.

PENSIONS TO POOR MOTHERS.

Washington to Pay $15 a Month for First Child and $5 Each for Others.

Tacoma, January 27.—Washington will be the first State to pay pensions to mothers. The Judiciary Committee of the lower house has acted favorably on the bill and a majority of House and Senate favor its adoption.

The bill provides payment of $15 a month for the support of the first child and $5 monthly additional for each additional child of destitute mothers. The House Judiciary Committee has reported favorably a bill providing for the payment by the State or county of $15 a day to destitute wives of inmates of penal institutions for the work of prisoners in prison or in road gangs. This law will cause a larger use of prisoners on State work.

Jenkins—Howard.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., January 27.—Miss Grace Truman Howard and J. W. Jenkins were quietly married in the home of the bride at 4 o'clock this morning by Rev. J. W. Reynolds. The nearest friends did not know of the event until they left on the 6 o'clock train enroute to Georgia to the home of the groom. After two weeks they will be at their home at Poughkeepsie.

SENATE STRIKES OUT HOUSE EXPRESSION

Not Willing to Class United States as Ally of Liquor Criminals.

FAVORS WEBB-KENYON BILL

Proceedings Indicate That Legislature Is Controlled by Conservative Sentiment.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Raleigh, N. C., January 27.—The expression "Whereas the protection of the liquor traffic makes the United States an ally of the liquor criminals" was struck from the joint resolution as it had passed the House to-day by the Senate, urging Congress to pass the Webb-Kenyon bill to prohibit the shipment of liquor into prohibition territory. The Senate eliminated this expression on recommendation of the Committee on Federal Relations and sent the amended resolution to the House for concurrence.

The Senate voted that clerks be provided for the Committee on Appropriations and Judiciary Committee No. 2. Wade Wisart, of Robeson County, gets the clerkship to the appropriations committee.

The longest discussion in the House to-day was on the Kellum bill for extending the age limit of consent on the part of a girl from fourteen to sixteen years. The bill was referred to the committee, with amendment by Doughton for marriage of parties to stop prosecution, in which case costs shall be paid by the defendant. Especially notable bills introduced in the House were by Haymore to require express and railroad companies to provide for a more speedy settlement of the small claims by patrons; by Ray to empower women to recover in their own right for damages for personal injuries; to regulate water power and electric lighting companies; and the Corbin amendment to the State Constitution were offered in the Senate to-day, both being much to the same effect. The Ivis bill would relieve the General Assembly from the burden of private bills, delegating powers to act under a general law, and would confer the veto power on the Governor and the Council of State and strike out the word "rebellion" in referring to the War between the States.

A bill by Senator Little merely gives the Governor the veto power.

Little Work Accomplished.

With fifteen days of the sixty days' session limit passed the members of the General Assembly—Senators and Representatives—were certainly well chilled and lubricated for the actual work to begin. Less than a score of bills have been actually ratified, and practically all of these are private and public bills.

The work of the session has sufficiently advanced to show definitely that the assembly—House as well as Senate—is dominated by a certain conservative sentiment, and the procedure in the State can rest assured that nothing is going to get through that can at all be classed as ultra-progressive. The fate of the resolution a few days ago to initiate distinguished men to address the Legislature on initiative and referendum demonstrated that this theory of progressive government will really have no show of serious consideration at this session.

The forces that dominated in this hostile expression as to initiative and referendum also make it clear that the bills for rigid legalized primaries for all parties in the State, and at the expense of the State, will certainly result at least in merely the enactment of a primary law that will be adopted optionally by counties and by parties through executive committee action and that will only give these primaries the party and not the State or county expense.

The overshadowing problem that is engaging the thought of the leaders at this time is that of adjustment of the finances of the State. The subcommittee of the Senate and the House Committees on Finance that are to grapple the matter of framing adequate revenue and machinery acts have just been announced, and with the coming week will be the most important conferences for this task. The Appropriation Committee is also just entering on its duties through subcommittee and the two houses just about fully marshaled and lubricated for the actual work to begin. Less than a score of bills have been actually ratified, and practically all of these are private and public bills.

tabulated along with definite recommendations from this new State tax commission the General Assembly to reassemble possibly in August or September, and its tax rate for the State and pass general appropriation bills. They would have appropriations at this session to be only temporary. It remains to be seen which of the two schools of legislation will dominate. Governor Ritchie has intimated that he feels confident that all necessary legislation can be accomplished at this session without the necessity of adjournment. A message from Governor Craig as to the State finances and other matters is expected at an early date.

It is quite certain that the Australian ballot bill that Mr. Williams, of Buncombe, has introduced will become a law and that the justice corrupt practices act will go through in spite of the indications that his primary bill means in sure process of operations that will cause it to emerge from the legislative hopper an almost totally different bill from its present form.
